

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **

CATHOLICS BANDING TOGETHER

In Rome, bishops from around the world are currently meeting to address the problem of sexual abuse.

I am prayerfully calling for the inclusion and equitable representation of sexual abuse survivors and their families; lay people, especially women; groups and experts who work for survivor justice; and women theologians in these discussions.

In 1979, Sr. Theresa Kane courageously addressed the Pope about the need for inclusive ministries in the Church. Her fellow religious sisters wore blue armbands in support. We honor their witness and message by wearing blue armbands today.

\ See the movement on Instagram @Catholicsbandingtogether **